CLERK, U.S. DISTRICT COURT
MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA

District of Minnesota

Complaint

I demand a jury trial and request money ($1 million) damages be awarded for discrimination and retaliation against me by agents and officials of the State of Minnesota.

The history of this wrong-doing goes back to 1991, when Minnesota-employed physician Paula Clayton made a false representation of my actions and my mental condition, making me out to have a medical/psychological condition that I did not have.

Over the last 28 years, I have suffered repeated abuses based upon an apparent bias that stems from this stigmatization.

Currently, I am in receipt of an abusive "determination" made by the Minnesota Department of Human Rights and the department's ruling very obviously and intentionally applies the wrong legal standard/practice by granting a dismissal to the state by weighing every disputed fact in favor of the state (and by inserting new disputed facts into its "analysis" without having previously revealed them and allowed rebuttal).

Two Tentative 2018 letter

I therefore allege that the Commissioner's ^{quasi-} Determination is an intentional abuse of judicial discretion and is a pre-text for reprisal against me for having made my human rights claims against the state, notwithstanding the charges I have alleged here in the claims made in my September 2017 Charge document, which I submitted to the Minnesota Dept. of Human Rights under Minnesota's Human Rights Act.

Additionally, the State of Minnesota's Pardon Board, Governor's Office, Attorney General's Office, and Judiciary have each discriminated against me and retaliated against me in recent months by refusing me access to public services and refusing to allow me to make requests for reasonable disability accommodations. I have sought to report these violations to the state human rights department. That department has in some cases taken my report but not documented or acted upon it, and in one instance the department refused to let me make a report, and failed to document its refusal as promised.
